Happy families all look alike; every unhappy family is unhappy in its own way. Everything was confused in the Oblonsky's house. The woman had discovered that the man was conducting an intrigue with a French girl, who was a governess in their family, and she had announced to her husband that she could not continue living in the same house with him. This position of business had now lasted three days, and not only the husband and wife themselves, but all members of their family and household, were painfully aware of it. Every person in the house felt that there was no point in their cohabitation, and that the stray people brought together by chance in an inn had more in common with each other than they, the members of the family and the household of the Oblonskys. The woman did not leave her own room, the man had not been home for three days. The children ran through the roof throughout the house; the English governess argued with the housekeeper, and wrote to a friend who asked her to watch a new situation for her; the man-cook had run away the day before just at dinner time; The kitchen maid, and the coachman had given warning. We apologize for this inconvenience. Your IP address is automatically blocked from accessing the Project Gutenberg website, www.gutenberg.org. This is because the geoIP database indicates that your address is in the country of Germany. Diagnostic information: Blocked at germany.shtml Your IP address: 176.9.137.118 Referrer URL (if available): Browser: Mozilla/5.0 (Windows NT 6.1) AppleWebKit/537.36 (KHTML, like Gecko) Chrome/41.0.2228.0 Safari/537.36 Date: Thursday 10-Dec-2020 18:40:32 GMT Why did this block take place? A court in Germany has ordered that access to certain items from the Gutenberg project collection from Germany be blocked. Project Gutenberg considers that the Court does not have jurisdiction over the case, but until the matter is resolved, it will comply. For more information about the German lawsuit, and the reason for blocking all of Germany instead of some items, visit PGLAF's information page about the German lawsuit. For more information on the legal advice Project Gutenberg has received on international issues, visit PGLAF's International Copyright Guidance for Project Gutenberg This page in German Automated Translation (via Google Translate): translate.google.com How can I get unblocked? All IP addresses in Germany are blocked. This block will remain in force until the legal guidelines change. If your IP address search is incorrect Use the Maxmind GeoIP demo to verify the status of your IP address. Project Gutenberg updates its list of IP addresses approximately monthly. Occasionally the website misapplies a block of a previous visitor. Because blocks are applied temporarily, you'll need to try again later to if Maxmind shows your address as outside Germany. If your IP address is displayed by Maxmind to outdoors and you were temporarily blocked, another problem is that some web browsers mistakenly cache the block. Trying another web browser can help. Or, erasing the history of your visits to the site. I have other questions or the need to report an error Send an email to the above diagnostic information to help2020@pglaf.org (removing the spaces around the @) and we will try to help. The software we use flags sometimes false positives - that is, blocks that shouldn't have happened. Apologies if this has happened because human users outside of Germany who use the eBooks or other site features should almost never be blocked. Updated most recently: January 28, 2020. 2020.
